1.3.2 Bottom Financial Quintile Student Success

Aid Leads to Graduation with over 2,209 Graduates in 2025

DOrSU measures success by whether students finish their degrees, pass their professional exams, and find work. In the 2024-2025 school year, the university conferred degrees on 2,149 graduates across its main campus and three extension campuses. Its first-time licensure examinees passed at 84.13%, against a target of 71.02%, and 58.12% of graduates from two years earlier were employed, against a target of 66.99%.

The 2025 report also notes the university's own concern that graduation numbers fell after the pandemic recovery year, and that strategies are needed to raise graduation rates. Completion among students who enrolled four years earlier was highest in Environmental Science and Nursing.
